

Consulting Expert Services

What does it involve?

A consulting expert service can assist in both preparing a case for trial and providing real time advice during trial on accounting and valuation issues.

How we can help

Consulting expert accountants act for the client and provide real time advice to assist in identifying accounting and valuation issues both prior to and during trial.

Axiom Forensics' depth of experience in providing independent expert witness services affords us strong insights into the litigation process (from the perspective of an expert witness), enabling us to assist Counsel and our instructing solicitors in identifying the key issues that warrant further investigation and the matters upon which an independent expert opinion should be sought.

We have acted as consulting expert accountants on numerous matters, including:

- Acting for an Australian Government regulator in the quantification of damages.
- Acting for an Australian Government regulator in relation to merger and acquisition clearances.
- Providing valuation advice in shareholder class actions.
- Developing financial models to quantify the potential value of claims in shareholder class actions.
- Quantification of damages claims and account of profit calculations for mediation purposes.
